

Falsely Accused

Handsome, schoolteacher Thomas Robson is falsely accused of molesting the son of the woman he loves, Elena Sideris. A beautiful ex-lover, and power-hungry prosecutor Marsha Stanley, along with a delusional divorcee Doris Branford, scheme to get him convicted and sent to prison. It appears to be the perfect crime; destroying ex lover is a most satisfying revenge. That is until Elena and her son, Luke who knows Thomass innocence, have vowed to discover the truth in this tale of love, jealousy, and murder. Somehow they must reveal the heart of the deception. And do it quickly, because someone is trying to permanently silence the major players in the trial. They must do what the police have not been able to discover who framed a good man and how to bring the perpetrators to justice. As the captivating plot unfolds, the heart of the deception is revealed, and justice is served.
